Preparing/ Hanging and Tagging Items

- Overall presentation of your items will help increase your sales. Your items must be ready to sell at your drop off time.
- All clothing items must be placed on hangers with the top of the hanger like a question mark (when you are looking at the front of the item.)

- Matching items may be sold as an outfit. If several pieces will be sold together make sure that the items are all attached to each other so that we will not find missing pieces without a tag.
- Ironing or steaming your items to improve their appearance can increase your sales.
- Please print your barcode tags on white or ivory card stock. It is important that you use black ink only when printing tags so that barcode is clear for scanning.
- Your printed barcode tags should be attached with a safety pin or tagging gun to the label/tag on the inside of the item. If the item does not have a clothing label, attach to an inside seam to insure that you do not damage your item. Double check that tag is attached securely as items without tags cannot be sold.
- Organize your hanging items by gender and size.
- Place your items in a basket, tote, or bin clearly labeled with your consignor number on the outside of the container. This is required for sale take down, to return your unsold items back to you.

- Junior’s/ Women’s Pricing Guidelines for Clothing. Use the above guidelines, adding at least $2 to the bottom end. Use a $5 guideline for Junior’s and Women’s clothing... all items hung on hanger should be worth selling for $5 or greater.
- High end and boutique/Designer Brand items may be priced higher than the above guidelines (closer to 40% of original retail) we have noticed that including the original retail price in your description will help the buyer understand the value of your item.
- Use the $2 guide... all clothing that hangs on a hanger must be worth and priced $2 or greater. If the item is only worth $1 it may be deemed good for a garage sale, not resale quality.
- All items must be priced on the dollar.
- While entering your items into the tagging system you may select items that you wish to be discounted 25% during discount sale. Items that are not designated for discount will be sold at full price for entire sale. We do encourage that you discount items, as we will have many shoppers looking for that extra bargain.
